

CONVENTION STOPS TO UNTIE KLAN KNOT

DAVIS BOOM GROWS AS DEADLOCK BREAKER

SECOND CHOICE STRENGTH MAY NOMINATE HIM

Experience of Baltimore-Convention May Be Repeated in This One

FAVORITES MUST FALL

Believe Neither McAdoo Nor Smith Can Muster Enough Votes for Nomination

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Madison Square Garden, New York.—Nobody—literally nobody—knows the outcome of the presidential contest at the Democratic national convention, not even the managers themselves though they all whistle cheerfully to keep up their courage. The fight between McAdoo and Smith has developed such bitterness that it begins to appear doubtful whether either can be nominated. The Smith delegates are intensely opposed to McAdoo, because so many of his delegates are accused of klan sympathy. Many of the Smith delegates are Catholics and resent any tolerance of the Klan as anti-Catholic. The McAdoo delegates are for the most part "dry" and proclaim their unalterable determination never to vote for a "wet" by which term they classify Smith.

No candidate in recent political history has ever been nominated without a strong second choice strength in the camp of his opponents. McAdoo has no reserve of sufficient numbers in the Smith ranks and while the New York governor has many adherents in the McAdoo delegation which were structured for the former secretary of the treasury but at heart never were for him, this Smith following is not big enough to make up two thirds.

SMITH MAY GAIN
Smith will gain several delegates from the states which have favorite sons just as soon as it appears that the latter cannot win.

Ohio, for instance, will vote for James M. Cox for a number of ballots and if he doesn't gain strength, about 30 of the 48 Ohio ballots will go for Smith. The Iowa delegation is held to McAdoo by a tie. The unit rule prevails there. The McAdoo men have about 12 of the 26 votes assured but three others who were instructed for McAdoo and who will help the delegation go to McAdoo for the first few ballots are reserving themselves the 8 to determine when they shall desert the former secretary of the treasury. This means they lean to Smith or a dark horse and away from McAdoo and unless the latter develops great strength in the first few ballots and continues to gain or rather doesn't lose, the Iowa vote will start on its adventure with some other candidate. There are a few votes in North Dakota which may be cast for Smith.

The strategy of the Smith managers will be to pile up these gains slowly and give the effect of a stampede in the hope that wild enthusiasm will carry doubtful delegations on to the Smith bandwagon. The evidence thus far does not indicate that Smith has yet made certain of two-thirds or anywhere near it. His high watermark may reach 450 but any strength beyond that is uncertain. If he could get to 600 he would have a splendid chance to win. But the thing that will defeat Smith, if indeed it doesn't at the same time defeat McAdoo, is the unusual "favorite son" vote in this convention. The "favorite son" vote means many delegations and they will not swing to the two leaders in a deadlock but will aid and abet the deadlock in the hope of a swing in their favor.

PALMER GIVES VIEWS

Senator on the speakers' platform, Saturday was A. Mitchell Palmer who reminded this correspondent of something that happened at Baltimore in 1912 and which may happen here. In that convention Mr. Palmer was floor manager for Woodrow Wilson and therefore he speaks with authority on the inner strategy of that historic meeting. "While Clark and Wilson were opposed to each other," he said, "they were not so violently opposed as to prevent Clark delegates from going to Wilson; in fact we had many second choice delegates in the Clark states. These men ultimately came to us." What Mr. Palmer says was true also at San Francisco in 1920. Cox had less than 150 votes at the start of that convention but his managers had obtained many second choice votes. As a consequence when it became apparent that neither Palmer nor McAdoo could win, the

Conqueror Of Time

HERE IS LIEUT. RUSSEL NAUGHTAN AS HE APPEARED IMMEDIATELY AFTER HIS PLANE LANDED AT CRISSEY FIELD, SAN FRANCISCO AT THE FINISH OF MAN'S GREATEST RACE AGAINST TIME AND FATIGUE. THE FIELD WAS JAMMED WITH TICKLED HUMANS RUSHING THROUGH THE FLARE LIGHTED SPACE TO GET A GLIMPSE OF THE MAN WHO TRAVELED FROM COAST TO COAST IN LESS THAN A DAY'S TIME, BATTLING ILLNESS AND STORMS ENROUTE.

McAdoo delegates did not desert but the Palmer men turned to Cox. Thus 1912 and 1920 went to the candidate with the greatest second choice strength. If history repeats itself, the same process will develop here. The McAdoo men will never go to Smith. The Smith men will never go to McAdoo. The second choice of the Smith group is Underwood but the McAdoo men are not likely to swing to the Alabama. Nevertheless this correspondent believes Underwood has an outside chance.

The second choice of many delegates has been Senator Ralston of Indiana but the publication of a story here Saturday that the Klan has all along preferred Ralston to McAdoo has alienated votes that might have gone to Ralston. It may not be true but those things hurt in a convention struggle.

BETWEEN BAKER AND DAVIS
The two most likely compromise candidates because of their second choice strength are Newton D. Baker of Ohio and John W. Davis of West Virginia. Mr. Baker's speeches have made him an outstanding figure here. He satisfies the McAdoo men because he is a dry and because he is an ardent Wilson man. He comes from Ohio which is a pivotal state in an election. He denounced the Klan here and thereby won friends in the New York and Illinois delegations. Tom Taggart of Indiana is friendly to him. His handicap is that the Ohio delegation is not backing him. Ohio must vote for Cox until his chances dwindle and then the delegation will split several ways. Newton Baker's opportunity would come only after Davis and others have been tried out and failed.

The Davis boom is growing more rapidly than any other here. The nominating speeches for him were excellent. He is not an active candidate himself and he has no organization. Friends from his home town, Clarkburg, W. Va., have placed him in nomination. They have played a cautious and skillful game piling up second choice pledges. They have no managers but expect to get some when certain states swing towards them. They expect to inherit votes from both the Smith and McAdoo camps.

Just now John W. Davis has more second choice strength than any man in the convention. And that's why—assuming that neither McAdoo nor Smith can be nominated—he can be looked upon to emerge as the beneficiary of both. But at this writing nobody knows that anything will happen for the McAdoo lines are holding and so the Smith lines. The delegates on platform means the real balloting will come Monday. The McAdoo men didn't want a Sunday to intervene after too many ballots had been taken and that's what hurt Clark at Baltimore. He lost over Sunday when the deals were made. Baltimore's lessons are being heeded here.

5 LIVES TOLL OF TORNADO IN ILLINOIS AREA

Iowa Also Suffers Destruction from Storms that Sweep Middle West

By Associated Press

Peoria, Ill.—Five persons are dead and scores are injured as the result of a tornado which broke over Peoria and surrounding territory about 3:15 Saturday morning.

No trace of a Big Four passenger train can be found. The train was due here at 6:45 a. m.

The bodies of a woman and her babe were found in a field far from their home at Cloverdale, near here, at Morton, ten miles east of here, several are reported killed and many injured.

At Cloverdale, 11 miles east, the Franks home was completely blown away. The body of Mrs. Franks was carried a hundred yards by the wind. Mr. Franks is in a serious condition and three children badly injured.

Damage is estimated at one and half million dollars. Hundreds of immense trees were uprooted in a path two miles long and three miles wide over the bluff and downtown sections of the city. Automobiles were carried from the streets, churches, schools and residences were wrecked.

IOWANS INJURED

Des Moines, Ia.—Four persons are known to have been injured and huge property loss in a number of Iowa cities resulted from a severe wind storm that swept virtually all sections of the state early Saturday morning. All communication lines were interrupted Saturday morning, and an accurate survey of conditions was impossible.

From reports it was indicated that property loss was chiefly in broken plate glass, tangled transmission and communication lines, fallen fruit, flattened crops and unroofed dwellings. Three persons known here to have been injured, were hurt by falling debris.

New York.—The divorce decree obtained by the late Joel Wolfe Thorne, millionaire son of the late Samuel Thorne, a banker, from his wife, Mary Casey Thorne, one day after he was killed in an automobile accident, will be made a court record, it was decided Friday by the Appellate division of the Supreme court. Mrs. Thorne had attempted to have the decree set aside on the ground that Thorne died before it was entered.

WOMAN IS INJURED IN CAR'S PIKE PEAK PLUNGE

Colorado Springs, Colo.—Mrs. W. H. Betts of St. Louis was seriously injured Friday when the automobile in which she and her husband were ascending Pike's peak plunged 200 feet over a cliff.

PLAYWRIGHT KILLED IN HUNTING ACCIDENT

Ring Says It Would Be Good Idea To Air Out Garden

BY RING W. LARDNER

New York — For the last several days different people have been complimenting me in the following words. "What terrible stuff you are writing! But one boy friend said you wrote something pretty good for The New Yorker Club Reporter so I said I did and I bought a copy of same and with or without your kind indulgence will now proceed to copy same and I don't say it is good, but that is just one boy friend's opinion."

FIND THE GARDEN FIRST

I would advise visiting reporters the first thing is to find out where is the convention to be held and write it down as "Madison Square Garden" and memorize the location of same. "Fourth-av. around Twenty-sixth-st." so as when you go back home and the madam says where was the convention held you can tell her it was held in Madison Square Garden, on Fourth-av. around Twenty-sixth-st. I learnt this lesson four years ago when I got home from "covering" the convention in San Francisco and my lady said to me "where was the convention held you say something so side says where did they hold the convention and I was kind of staggered on account of not having no idea where had they held the convention so I says what did you say to give me time to think up something and she repeated the question and I said why they held it in the auditorium out near the Presidio. This got by all right because in the first place she don't hardly know what state is San Francisco in and in the 2nd place she was not listening as she did not give a dam where it was held but some wives is different. Now I don't want nobody to think I have got anything against Madison Square Garden and in fact I am fond of same as it is the only place I know of in the east where a person can get to cover a fight and not get his skull fractured by a policeman when you show your press ticket, but on the other hand I could name a lot of nicer places to spend the convention, a specially as the Garden has been host all spring to Ringling's circus and certainly ain't had time to get fresh on which you couldn't know the difference anyway after the delegates got in there a couple of hours.

The boys around The New Yorker club can give you the names of these other places I refer to and you will find the most of them equipped with tables which you can write your stuff on after they been wiped off and at this juncture I would like to caution the visiting brothers to be overwriting, 200 words a day is plenty for a Democratic convention and most of the time it ain't necessary to do more than send your managing editor a telegram saying see U. N. for what come off today. U. N. is the nickname I got up for The United News. If I send your stuff by mail it is a good idea to use copy paper rather than the back of a new card.

In the case the boys around the New Yorker club refuses to give the desired information why one of the best places I know of to work is the Rendezvous (pronounced Rendezvous on Forty-fifth-st and if it was not closed I would take you there myself. (copyright, 1924 by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

REQUIRE FIVE YEARS SCHOOL WORK FOR BAR

Strict Educational Qualifications Favored By Lawyers at Convention

After long and heated discussion, the Wisconsin State Bar association voted on record late Friday afternoon favoring educational qualifications for men admitted to the Wisconsin bar of not less than two years in a liberal arts college followed by three years in a law school. The convention accepted the majority report of the committee on legal education as presented by Dean H. S. Richards of the law school of the University of Wisconsin and seconded by Dean Max Schoetz of the law school of Marquette university. It voted down the minority report of the committee, presented by E. E. Brossard of Madison.

The resolution presented by Deana Richard and Schoetz included the educational qualification without the clause making it possible for the candidate to substitute equivalent for the requirements. This resolution was supported by those who feel that it is possible for any young man who really wants an education to secure the five years' training. Those who opposed it did so on the grounds that had such an educational requirement been in existence in the past many of the greatest statesmen and barristers of history could not have been admitted to the bar. The opposition felt that to fail to comply with the step taken by the American Bar association was a step backward for the legal profession in Wisconsin.

The Friday afternoon program was a heavy one for so hot a day but the sessions were the best attended of the convention. H. A. Sawyer of Milwaukee and George Shaughnessy, district attorney of Milwaukee county talked on "Guidesposts for the Prosecution in Criminal Cases." Later in the afternoon W. H. Bennett discussed criminal cases from the standpoint of the defense. The former speaker urged that every bit of evidence be presented by the prosecution while the latter advised lawyers to have their clients plead guilty at once if the lawyers know that they are guilty. Both subjects were gone into in technical detail.

The Dietzler murder trial was mentioned by Prof. J. H. Mathews, who has done so much in scientific methods in the detection of crime. Prof. Mathews talked largely on the science of metacology but introduced some of the other sciences. He urged that in a case where there is necessity for scientific methods of detection that the proper expert be called at once before the evidence has been handled by large numbers of people.

SORLIE VICTORY IS LEAGUE COMEBACK

Nestos conceding his defeat for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Wednesday's primary election as a result of the close race, Sorlie held a lead of 163 Saturday with 21,600 precincts out of 21,600 missing. FINED $125,000 FOR SHOOTING SON'S FIANCEE

New York.—Two damage suit judgments totaling $125,000 were returned Friday against Mrs. Concepcion Blanca, 63, on the eve of her departure for prison to serve a term of two to five years for having shot her son's fiancée, Miss Elvira Orgero. Mrs. Blanca two days ago was convicted of having permanently paralyzed the 13 year old girl when she shot her last December after Miss Orgero had called on her to tell her that she intended soon to marry her son. A civil jury today awarded the crippled girl an $85,000 judgment and later awarded $40,000 to Miss Orgero's mother for the loss of her daughter's services.

Give New State Board Million And Half For Care Of War Veterans

Madison — More than $1,500,000 will become available on July 1, for the medical rehabilitation of Wisconsin veterans of the world war under the state soldier's rehabilitation board, which is established at that time, it was revealed Saturday by state officials. The rehabilitation board will be the latest move in the state's program of aiding veterans of the late war. The rehabilitation board, composed of Dr. C. A. Harper, state health officer, Dr. W. F. Lorenz, director of the state psychiatric institute, and Dr. W. S. Middleton, of the state university, is now completing plans for inaugurating the work of the new board. Col. J. C. Salzman of the state adjutant general's department, has been named secretary of the board. The work of the new board will constitute principally the location of former service men who need medical treatment and placing them in suitable institutions or providing necessary attention. Injury directly or indirectly traceable to military or naval service and mental diseases will be given attention by the board.

Contracts will be completed shortly after the board comes into existence with hospitals and other institutions in the state for caring for veterans. The board will select the institution for each individual case and meet the expense of treatments, operations, tests, examinations and also necessary appliances. The board may select state, county, municipal or private institutions for treatment of the veterans, under the law passed by the last legislature. Any person who has served in the World war and who has resided in the state not less than five years is eligible to treatment under the law.

LAWYERS HEAR OF PLAN TO ABOLISH MUNICIPAL COURTS

Revision of Wisconsin Judicial System Discussed at Convention

Abolition of so called inferior courts to simplify the court system in the state of Wisconsin was advocated at the Saturday morning session of the Wisconsin State Bar association convention in progress at Elk hall, Roy P. Wilcox of Eau Claire presented a paper in which he advocated the abolition of municipal courts in favor of county courts with uniform powers of jurisdiction. In those counties where municipal courts are available outside of the county seat, the functions of the municipal and county courts should be identical according to Senator Wilcox plan.

The senator's plan would abolish the municipal court of Milwaukee making it a part of the circuit court and the limiting of cases which may be tried in the Milwaukee county civil courts. Mr. Wilcox and all the other speakers on the subject, decried the fact that it is the poorest judge which tries the poor man's cases involving small amounts.

EXCHANGE JUDGES

Judge E. Ray Stevens discussed the senator's paper, adding the idea that county judges suggested by Mr. Wilcox plan be interchangeable so that they could relieve the congested courts.

Badger Gets Ovation As He Ends Nominating Oratory

New York.—Thunderous cheers for Wisconsin and Smith rumbled through Madison Square garden today when former Judge Martin L. Lueck of Beaver Dam delivered a speech seconding the nomination of Gov. Smith.

The address of former Judge Lueck completed the nominating and seconding speeches for presidential candidates. It was a tumultuous climax. Several times the Wisconsin speaker was interrupted by the ovations he received and at the conclusion of his address a noisy demonstration of fifteen minutes duration occurred. Once the speaker was hailed by yells from the McAdoo rosters.

PROCESSION IS STARTED

When he had completed, James L. McCormack of Milwaukee seized the Wisconsin standard from its position and rushed to the platform, hoisting it in the air over the head of Chairman Thomas J. Walsh of Montana. The Illinois, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts delegations joined the Badgers and the standards of the four states, together with a large American flag were planted in front of the speaker. Then followed Alaska, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Minnesota, Philippines, North Dakota and Vermont. The band played "East Side, West Side." The standards were all carried to a procession in the center of the hall, where they were raised in a cluster. Every Smith supporter in the hall was cheering madly. Strens shrieked, whistles blew, flags were waved. Judge Lueck had ignited the wild Smith demonstration of the day. As the demonstration began to re-

SOLUTION OF ISSUE SEEMS HOPELESS NOW

Floor Fight Is in Preparation With Colby and Bryan Leading Battle

START BALLOTING MONDAY

Sixteen Candidates Are Entered in Race for Party's Nomination

Madison Square Garden, N. Y.—Responding to appeals of the party leaders to give more time for the platform committee to work on the Ku Klux Klan plank, the Democratic national convention after a brief morning session recessed until 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, eastern daylight saving time.

Seemingly hopelessly divided on the issue of whether the Klan is to be named specifically and surrounded with war clouds loaded with threats of a party split, the convention manager sent Homer Cummings, chairman of the platform committee to the bat to explain to the convention why the platform was being delayed and to plead for more time.

Tired and worn by continuous loss of sleep since last Tuesday, Chairman Cummings gave as dramatic a recital as ever has been heard in national convention. Explaining the deliberations of the committee and its inability to reach an agreement he told amid a dramatic silence how after an all night session the committeemen had gathered around the table in the breaking dawn of the day and recited in unison the Lord's prayer, after which William Jennings Bryan had raised his voice and spoke a prayer for divine guidance.

COLBY WILL LEAD

Bainbridge Colby of New York, secretary of state under Woodrow Wilson, was selected Saturday to make the fight for anti-Klan plank on the floor of the convention. Mr. Colby was chosen at a conference attended by Norman E. Mack of New York, George Brennan of Illinois, and other Democratic leaders who favor condemnation of the Klan by name.

DONATIONS SAVE EQUITY FAILURE

Madison—Success of the financial campaign of the Wisconsin Union of the American Society of Equity is assured and the organization will not go into bankruptcy. It was announced at state headquarters here Saturday.

For three months the union has been conducting a campaign among its members to raise $25,000 to meet outstanding debts. It is said, and the goal has been practically reached. Financial condition of the union was one of the outstanding matters discussed at the last annual convention and it was decided to inaugurate the drive to prevent proceedings. Within a short time, the union will be on a safe financial basis. It was said by the state secretary.

ASPIRANTS ALL NAMED

The last of the preliminary formalities of the convention cleared away Friday and as a result 16 names were formally before the delegates Saturday as candidates for the presidential nomination. The week of steadily accelerated maneuvering apparently had brought about no material change in the deadlock situation involving the vast field of candidates. William G. McAdoo of California, and Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, retained the lead the number of pledged votes for the opening ballot and managers of each maintained claims of accessions. Sponsors of dark horse candidates, meanwhile continued to express pleasure over the situation and confidence in the outcome.

The list of candidates formally before the convention Saturday included: Oscar W. Underwood, Alabama; Joseph T. Robinson, Arkansas; William G. McAdoo, California; Willard Saulsbury, Delaware; Samuel M. Ralston, Indiana; Jonathan M. Davis, Kansas; Albert C. Ritchie, Maryland; Woodbridge N. Ferris, Michigan; David F. Houston, Missouri and New York; Charles E. Bryan, Nebraska; Fred H. Brown, New Hampshire; George S. Shuler, New Jersey; Alfred E. Smith, New York; James M. Cox, Ohio; Carter Glass, Virginia; John W. Davis, West Virginia and New York.

F. E. DAVIDSON IS AFTER STATE JOB

Milwaukee—Francis E. Davidson, Milwaukee real estate dealer, has announced his candidacy for secretary of state. Mr. Davidson will oppose Fred R. Zimmerman, the present secretary, and Theodore Dammann, Milwaukee, who has announced his candidacy on the Republican ticket with the support of Gov. Blaine.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

LIGHT, FAST CAR BEST SUITED TO NEEDS OF TODAY

Magazine Writer Declares Present Trend Is to Speed, Economy and Comfort

Will another five years see the large bulky motor car of wheelbase figured in yards instead of inches, a thing of the past?

The past year has been a tremendous change in the attitude of motor car buyers. Size, to them was formerly a symbol of luxury and of quality. But the large car has gradually come to be visualized as so much added baggage, unnecessary to riding comfort, unnecessary to road stability, and an absolutely unnecessary drain on the pocketbook.

Vanity Fair recently published an article by H. W. Slauson, entitled "Short Wheelbases for Long Pockets." Mr. Slauson is an advocate of the small compact motor of maximum efficiency, fitted to a frame capable of carrying a body of just sufficient size to give ample room to all passengers. Of course, the first reason given by Mr. Slauson for his choice is the growing traffic congestion in the larger cities, and the parking problem, which is beginning to exist even in the smaller towns.

But the big reason for purchasing a smaller car does not stop there. Economy of operation and the lower first cost are also deciding factors.

Then there is the matter of performance. Mr. Slauson points out that a horsepower sufficient to drive a heavy car at 20 to 30 miles an hour is ample to carry a light car at 55 to 60 miles with ease. At low speeds in high gear the light car also has another advantage, for it may be able to make a start in 2 to 3 miles an hour because there is so little resistance to overcome.

Then Mr. Slauson goes on to say: "The same design which makes for power and performance from a small, compact engine, also produces reliability. Adequate, positive lubrication provides sufficient lubrication from the owner, and such features of design combined produce long life, with but little expense for repairs for overhauling."

Mr. Slauson's words can be taken as highly authoritative. He has been selected by a magazine which devotes a considerable portion of its columns to motor cars and motoring. And he has used the space given him to interpret the present buying trend.

But the reason that we call specific attention to the article is that the Chrysler Six might have been the car Mr. Slauson has taken as his ideal; for the Chrysler Six fits almost every detail of this ideal, and in some points even goes beyond.

Yet, Chrysler beginnings are four years old. In other words, Walter P. Chrysler and his associates anticipated four years ago what the public would want. And only in the past few months has the public realized what it really did want. The result is the Chrysler Six, it stands alone today in offering the ideal car for the American owner-driver.

CHEVROLET 8 YRS. OLD, GOING STRONG

We have a Chevrolet which is still in service although 8 years old, says Mrs. Frank Byden. We have driven it over 40,000 miles over all kinds of roads the year 'round but it has never faltered.

We have never had a broken spring, axle, differential, driving rod or steering gear. We used the car 7 years before we got a new car. We have never had a new top or back, so of course, "she" isn't much on looks, but we are satisfied with "her" for we know that we will get "there" and back all right.

For several years, we have planned to get a new car, but each year the engine would run so smoothly that we would put it off. Now we have decided not to wait for the old car to come to a standstill but to get a new Chevrolet anyway, and the old car insists on running, and we will make it over into a truck.

After our experience, I don't believe there is another car made that can compare with Chevrolet for endurance and economy, and I never let a chance go by to say a good word for it.

PREHISTORIC MAN IS FOUND IN CLIFF

Lewiston.—A huge skeleton, believed to be that of a prehistoric human being, has been discovered in the Salmon river country, south of here, by two members of the state highway department who have brought their find to this city. The lower jaw and vertebra will be sent to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, D. C., for analysis as to the probable date of existence.

The bones were found in the side of a cliff at a depth estimated to be 50 feet. Nearly the entire skeleton was recovered, the excavators proceeding with more care after determining that the find might prove to be of scientific value.

SUMMER WEATHER DANGER PERIOD FOR STORAGE BATTERY

Water Evaporates Rapidly, Undercharged Battery Plates Become Hardened.

Hot weather, just like extremely cold weather, is a danger period in the life of any storage battery unless the proper care is given it. So warns Mr. Schroeder, local Willard service station dealer.

"Summer weather is probably the most dangerous time the battery must pass through because the automobile is used more during this period. This is the time when overheating the battery is liable to happen," says Mr. Schroeder.

"Motorists as an average are prone to forget neglect keeping the battery filled with pure distilled water in hot weather. Evaporation of the water in the solution in the battery during hot weather is rapid. If the level of the water is permitted to reach a point below the tops of the plates, the upper portion is left exposed and useless. The covered portion of the plates are then obliged to assume the extra burden of discharging and damage not seen at the time, but results in considerable expense later.

"A dealer will always recommend plenty of pure water. Apply this same advice to a battery and it will do its work properly."

"Overheating of a battery may be suit from an undercharged condition continuing for some time.

"When undercharged for some time, plates become hardened and offer greater resistance to the charging current. If therefore a car with a starved battery is taken on a long run, the normal charging rate will produce intense heat in the battery to such an extent that the plates will buckle. This starved condition may be due to the inexperience or lack of knowledge on the part of the driver, who does not use judgement in operating his lights, or who uses the starter often than necessary. If the battery were in a normal condition this would not occur.

"Periodic inspection of your battery's condition during hot summer weather by a battery service station is about the best sort of trouble insurance you can carry," concludes Mr. Schroeder.

TEN MILLIONTH CAR PRESENTS PROBLEM

With Ford Car No. 10,000,000 now in service and making a transcontinental trip from New York to San Francisco over the Lincoln Highway, the man who enjoys figuring can have a world of practice.

The other day one gifted gentleman worked out the tire problem. He figured that the forty million tires used on the ten million Fords, if stacked up would make a rubber column 2,000 miles high.

Then, looking for road trouble, he punctured each of the tires, and then figured that one man working eight hours a day except Sundays and holidays would replace a tire every five minutes and finally finish the job in 400 years.

height and possessing numerous strange features, the skeleton has aroused widespread interest. Three physicians who examined it pronounced it to be that of a woman.

A special Sport Roadster, featuring ultra-complete equipment, has just been introduced by the Oldsmobile Works, Lansing, Michigan. This latest addition to the Oldsmobile line brings the number of models of the 1924 six cylinder car to eight, and gives a wide variety of body types.

The Sport Roadster presents a dashing appearance either with top up or down. It is finished in weather bronze green in either duco or the colored enamel finish recently perfected by Oldsmobile engineers. The following equipment is standard on the Sport Roadster:

Tuare steel wheels, nicked radiator shell, radiator bar cap and motor, spotlight mounted on left front fender apron, front and rear twin bar bumpers, two running board plates, windshield cleaner, rear vision mirror, four body guard rails on deck door, windshield wings, top boot and special top holders and straps, and spare tire carrier.

The new Sport Roadster Oldsmobile has met with special favor among tourists and women drivers because of its unusual carrying capacity. Back of the front seat is an interior carrying space with a capacity of five cubic feet. The rear deck space is of nearly fifteen cubic feet capacity.

Both are ideally suited for carrying luggage and shippers' bundles. The Oldsmobile line now consists of touring, sport touring, roadster, two-passenger cab, four-passenger coupe, sedan and DeLuxe sedan.

KEEPING YOUR BUICK PROPERLY CARED FOR

SPRING HOUSECLEANING Now that spring housecleaning is well under way it is a good plan for the Buick owner to extend his plans to include his car. There is just as much reason, if not more, for giving the car a thorough cleaning and inspection in the spring, as there is for the annual spring housecleaning.

For various reasons cars do not receive as careful attention from their owners during the winter months as during the rest of the year, although they are subjected to far harder service.

After giving the car a thorough cleaning, with particular attention to the chassis, it is a good plan to look to the lubricating. The instruction book contains a lubrication chart and it is a valuable guide to the owner in the proper oiling and greasing of the engine over a few revolutions by hand and replace the spark plugs, after first cleaning them and adjusting them to the proper gap.

Oil should be applied to the pump shaft front bearing, fan, valve lifters, rocker arms and generator bearings. The transmission and rear axle should be drained and refilled with fresh lubricant. In short, all lubricated parts throughout the chassis should be served with fresh oil or grease as required. Grease should be forced into the bearings until it is seen exuding from the opposite ends of the joints, as this indicates that the hardened grease has been forced out of the grease passages.

If spring leaves appear dry and in need of lubrication the frame may be jacked up to relieve the load on the springs. Then the leaves may be forced apart sufficiently for the application of graphite grease with a piece of thin sheet metal. The owner may find it more convenient, after the frame is jacked up, to paint the sides of the springs with oil. The weight of the car when the jacks are removed will force this oil between the leaves. Springs should also be carefully looked over to see that the spring clips have not become loosened or broken in winter driving. Loose spring clips may result in a broken spring. Lubrication of the springs is not recommended for 1923 or 1924 models. They are so constructed that lubrication makes the springs work too freely.

Attention to the cooling system is important. No matter what kind of antifreeze mixture is used, a certain amount of sediment is bound to settle in parts of the system, or to adhere to the cylinder and radiator walls. Fill the radiator to a point two or three inches below the top of the overflow pipe with a solution consisting of one pound of washing soda thoroughly dissolved in five gallons of water. Start the engine, open the radiator drain cock and pump drain cock, and then keep a stream of water running into the radiator until the water escaping from the radiator drain cock and pump drain cock is clear. Indicating that a thorough cleaning of the cooling system has taken place. It is well to examine the hose connections to see that they have not been damaged by the antifreeze mixture. Alcohol and other antifreeze mixtures sometimes cause the interior coating of rubber to swell and pull away from the fabric, thus blocking the passage. If this has happened it is advisable to replace the connections with short, inexpensive pieces of hose.

The owner of a closed Buick should extend his spring housecleaning to the interior of the car. The vacuum cleaner will prove valuable in removing dust from the upholstery. See that the hot air register is closed to prevent the collection of dust and refuse.

It is wise to see that all bolts are tight to prevent body squeaks and rattling. The mechanical parts of the car should also be thoroughly examined, such as the steering gear and brakes. It is a good plan also to see that all the wheels are in alignment after the hard driving conditions of winter.

RESALE VALUE IS CADILLAC FEATURE

V-63 Is Most Popular Model—4 Wheel Brakes—V Type Motor

The man who is on the verge of buying a new car can obtain a good idea of automotive values by studying the used car market. Here are assembled the new cars of former years of all Manufacturers. All of them have been subjected to the acid test of usage, have been driven many months and many miles. Their performance, endurance, economy and position in public esteem are all graphically summed up in their resale value. Looking into this Market, as into a magic mirror, one can learn the true merits of the new cars of today from the resale records of the old.

A high resale value is positive evidence to fine quality in materials, engineering and manufacturing. It points indisputably to a product that is exceptionally reliable, enduring and economical. Investigating this market buyers of fine cars will realize that the Cadillac what they already know; that it is supremely dependable, that no limit has been found to its life that it is the paying investment in its field. They will find in fact that "Cadillac resale value is the envy of the industry."

Out West, they find little difficulty in determining the best motor car in each price class.

The mountains and the gumbo—sure tests of power, strength, endurance and dependability—definitely decide that question.

In the case of automobiles of the highest grade, the verdict is particularly emphatic.

Cadillac registrations in states west of the Mississippi are more than three times as great as those of the similar-priced car next in favor, and almost seven times as great as those of the car ranking third.

Moreover, this pronounced preference for the Cadillac reaches its highest point in the demand for the New V-63.

The reasons will be plainly apparent to every Cadillac owner and to every man who hopes to attain to Cadillac ownership.

Its solid, substantial frame, proved Four-Wheel Brakes and, above all, its harmonized 90 degree V-Type eight cylinder engine single out the V-63 as individual and exceptional. Equipping it for a superlative kind of performance—a kind of performance which only the V-63 Cadillac can give.

On this point, East and West, North and South, meet in cordial agreement.

Blocking the passage. If this has happened it is advisable to replace the connections with short, inexpensive pieces of hose.

DODGE TYPE A SEDAN IS POPULAR

The Type A Sedan is built entirely of steel and finished in Dodge Brothers characteristic fashion. Upholstery is of the finest mohair velvet and all hardware is enameled and nickel-plated of Dodge Brothers own design. Pockets are provided in each of the large front doors and a detachable robe cord is mounted on the rear of the front seat. An efficient heater is standard equipment. The leverage of the clutch pedal is such that driving in traffic is very easy. Only the slightest pressure is necessary to operate it. While this improvement is incorporated in all the new Dodge Brothers cars, it is of particular value in the Type A Sedan, because this car is so frequently driven by women.

DODGE BROTHERS TYPE B SEDAN

The body is of steel and finished in baked enamel. Upholstery below the belt is of Spanish blue leather of remarkable wearing qualities. This upholstery is removable. In fact, it is possible to take out the entire seat and seat supports, affording a clear loading space 62 cubic feet in dimensions. This feature was developed a year ago by Dodge Brothers and has been found invaluable by those who desire the protection of a closed car and at the same time need considerable loading space. Large pockets are provided in the front doors. The heater is the same as in the Type A Sedan.

DODGE BROTHERS BUSINESS COUPE

As in the case of the two sedans, the body is built wholly of steel. It is finished in baked enamel. Upholstery below the belt is of Spanish blue leather. There are spacious pockets in both doors and a large compartment extends along the entire back-length of the deep roomy seat. The luggage compartment in the rear deck is also of exceptional size. In this car, as in all other types, the gear shift lever has been moved forward, allowing ample leg room. Both the front and rear windows may be lowered, operating in velvet covered rubber runways which eliminate rattling. A body heater is included as standard equipment.

LOCAL DORT DEALER COMPARES CAR PRICE

Few people realize the fact that now above all times is the best time to purchase an automobile, said H. H. Clockin of the South Side Garage local Dort dealer.

"When I think of prices now compared to prices three four years ago, I feel that we have reached deep rock bottom. And not only are prices lower but cars much better looking and certainly much better mechanically."

"Take the Dort line for instance. In 1920 Dort was building only four-cylinder cars. A Dort four-cylinder touring car then cost $1025. Now you can get a Dort Six for $1065. Just think—a Six for $1065, when only four years ago you had to pay as much for a Four. And the Six is much better looking, has a longer wheelbase, and is bigger in every way. Moreover, you get more equipment, a higher grade of upholstery, longer tire mileage. Truly, this is the year of automobile values."

"Since 1920 we have seen many marked improvements in automobile design. The manufacturers have offered a great contribution in the way of better tires. I believe that no industry can point to as rapid progress in the last four years as the automobile industry. This is the year to buy your car."

REO DEALER'S STOCKS MATERIALLY REDUCED

Distributors and dealers of the Reo Motor Car Company reduced their stocks by fifteen hundred vehicles during May, according to records at the factory in Lansing, Michigan, which show that retail sales exceeded factory shipments by that number. A marked revival of the buying spirit is reflected in reports from all parts of the country received at the Reo factory from dealers, and a more optimistic outlook is expressed by retail merchants.

Motor bus business is making daily gains, officials declare, and the new Pay-Enter type bus, designed to meet the demand for feeders for electric railway lines, is in good demand. More employees are being added to the bus division constantly and a great deal of attention is being paid the development of this branch of the business.

Distributors and dealers report a great measure of public interest in the new vehicles. Increased buying in most parts of the United States is said by the Reo dealers to be the result of favorable political and economic changes.

As an example of the volume of business transacted by Reo distributors the company points to the fact that one distributor received a trainload of forty-three freight cars laden with Reo vehicles recently.

Another 44-car train carrying Reo cars exclusively will soon be shipped to the same distributor. When that shipment arrives he will have received his forty-fourth trainload of automobiles from the factory since his company has handled the line.

Since the touring season got under way and roads in some of the more inaccessible parts of the United States became clear, retail buying, dealers say, has increased substantially. Continued demand is expected through the summer and most of the merchants are anticipating a comfortable volume of sales during the fall months.

MOON CAR SALES CONTINUE GOOD

Business on Par With Last Year. Series "A" Enclosed Model Popular

Sales of Moon automobiles are being maintained at a normal rate, and the volume of business done the first five months of this year is on a par with sales for the same period of 1923, reports F. H. Rengers, General Sales Manager, Moon Motor Car Company, St. Louis.

When the automobile business slowed up the past spring, if, indeed, there was any spring, our dealers were fortunately situated, not being overstocked with automobiles in showroom or warehouse says Rengers.

Very few Moon cars were warehoused the past winter, especially the New Series "A" models, for the reason that the demand has always been ahead of production. Moon dealers throughout the country report that their stocks of automobiles are in an unusually healthy condition, and consequently are well prepared for any unfavorable business conditions.

There has been a marked resumption of automobile buying the past few weeks, due to some extent to improved weather conditions in various parts of the country, and to the introduction of the new series "A" Moon Enclosed models, the Two Door and Four Door Sedans, now in quantity production. While 1924 will not surpass 1923, present indications are that it will be equal in volume of production and sales to 1923, says Rengers.

Big Dance at Darbo, Menning's Orch. on Monday, June 30th. Dance 8 to 2.

NO IMAGINATION NEEDED FOR THIS

Ford Car No. 10,000,000 leaving from New York on its transcontinental trip, will occupy only a small space at Times Square, starting point of the Lincoln Highway, the route to be traversed.

But suppose all the other 9,999,999 Fords were to show up for the cross country run. That would be a different story.

The first problem to arise would be that of finding parking space for all of them. Removing all New York's skyscrapers and other buildings from twenty-two square miles of parking ground, but that wouldn't be sufficient to accommodate the 10 million Fords even if they were parked without any space at all between them. It would be necessary to park a few hundred thousand over in Brooklyn or some other handy place.

If the cars started off four abreast and fifteen feet apart, maintaining that space throughout, by the time the last four were ready to start, the leading quartet would be one thousand miles on its third trip across the continent. In other words, by simply advancing fifteen feet each time a line of four Fords was added the leading cars would go to San Francisco, return and go nearly half way across the country before the last was even started.

Getting the cars off on such a parade would be real work, for if the starter worked twenty-four hours a day and sent the cars on their way in detachments of four every minute he would have to be on the job five years.

CROPS IN FAIRLY GOOD CONDITION IN SPITE OF RAINS

County Agent Amundson Contradicts Pessimistic Stories from Farms

Although the numerous rains of the last three months have done much to delay the crops of the county, it would be unwise at this time to predict any kind of failure, according to Robert A. Amundson, county agricultural agent.

The crop that would appear to be most precarious of all is that of small grains. Oats, barley, rye and wheat all are being well along in growing nicely, in spite of the lateness of sowing and the wet soil. Oats probably was affected the most but it is not in danger yet. The weather has not been hot enough to dry it up prematurely. Much depends on the condition of the weather of the next few weeks.

In some cases, oats that had too late a start, will be cut for hay. Some of the farmers made use of the opportunity to sow a quantity of oats and peas mixed for a hay crop. Alfalfa has a pretty healthy stand, although it is behind the cutting time of last year. Some of the farmers have already begun cutting. Owing to the lateness of the season, a third cutting will be inadvisable, and probably not possible at all. Clover, timothy and other hay is faring well, except where it was killed out last year by the drought. Last year's new seedling of alfalfa also is not doing so well as alfalfa previously sown.

Potatoes are nearly all in the ground, although a few farmers are still planting late ones. In some patches early potatoes are already coming out of the ground. Corn is growing nicely, and corn for silage will be planted. Beet weevils are already engaged in thinning out the little plants. Very little cabbage has as yet been planted, and it is difficult to estimate the acreage or crop of canning peas.

MARKETING

In connection with the proposed absorption of five large grain-trading concerns by agricultural associations, the Farm Bureau federation notes the advancement so far made with cooperative marketing. By cooperative marketing two-thirds of the tobacco crop is sold, ninety per cent of California raisins, eighty-five per cent of the prunes, eighty per cent of the peaches and apricots, eighty per cent of the dried fruits, seventy-five per cent of the citrus fruit, and twenty-five per cent of the live stock.

Skill in adjusting supply to demand is the secret of successful marketing, as it is of successful production. The object to be achieved is a high average price for the year's production. Control of marketing is an important factor in regulating prices.

The most ambitious plan for cooperative marketing of farm products yet attempted is that which contemplates the transfer to the principal agricultural associations of the five leading grain operating concerns of Chicago, with the 5,000 "elevators" and terminal facilities of these concerns. The concerns which would be absorbed and managed by the agricultural associations do a cash business of $1,000,000,000 a year, and they have physical properties valued at $23,000,000.

While the deal is not closed, the progress so far made in the negotiations indicate that it may be. The executives of the private corporations agree to give their advice and assistance to the agricultural organizations in operating the service and properties to realize cooperative marketing on a gigantic scale.

It is maintained that the two chief needs of the farmer are markets for agricultural products and a practical, efficient system of cooperative marketing. The plan under consideration would fill both of these needs, and farmers, through their associations and the cooperative marketing system, would be in touch with the ranking trade centers.

The program which is being made along commercial lines among farmers and growers ought to convince them that cooperative marketing and the application of modern business principles to their industry will do more for its advancement than all of the fantastic schemes of irresponsible politicians put together, and then some. Just so long as the office-holders and so-called reformers continue to divert the attention of producers away from the economic and commercial side of their industry, and to looking to the government to solve their difficulties and make them prosperous by some mysterious piece of hocus-pocus, just so long will their troubles continue.

If the farmers, along with all other classes in this country, would give that attention and that attention only to politics which brought about the election of honest and capable legislators and executives, to the end that we might have sensible laws and efficiency and economy in their administration, they would be better off. Farm prosperity, the same as national prosperity in all times, is primarily an economic and not a political problem. Every successful merchant, every successful manufacturer, every successful agriculturist, will vouch for this.

DICTATORSHIPS

Public opinion has deserted Benito Mussolini, Italy's despotic premier. As his uniformed hosts marched through the streets of ancient Rome, the silence of the spectators along the sidewalk was like a political pall. When Mussolini led them into Rome but a short while ago to take the government by force, the frenzied populace cheered lustily. The people were willing to have dictatorship in order to run grafters and radicals from government office, and they trusted in the Fascist leader because he preached the doctrine of nationalism.

Now there is no applause in the streets of Rome for the "Black Shirts." Men prominent in the Fascist organization are implicated in a murder. Corruption has been discovered in the Fascist government. Mussolini is an autocrat. He has been guilty of big and little tyrannical acts, by which he has oppressed groups of individuals. He has personified the force of an armed party, which he could summon to maintain his authority.

Mussolini is said to have improved general conditions throughout Italy. Yet it is questionable whether he will leave any permanently good results. The liberals and conservatives are quite as eager as the radicals to obtain his defeat. The experience of Italy with Mussolini is but another confirmation of the historical fact that dictatorships of whatever nature soon become obnoxious. Arbitrary force in government, whether in the form of an absolute monarchy, sovietism or power obtained by force, in time breeds popular resistance and sooner or later falls. Wherever any other kind of government than that fundamentally which obtains in the United States of America has been experimented with it has proven a failure. Despotism is intolerable.

Irrespective of the abuses which from time to time creep into it, and of whatever minor inherent it may possess, representative government is the one system which holds any real hope of permanent success. With many nations it must be a slow process of evolution, either because of peculiar traditions and psychology or because of lack of capacity for self-government. In the United States it has been a success from the beginning because it was created out of intelligent material and a desire for that freedom and responsibility which animated the colonizers of this continent and the makers of the constitution.

JUDGE KENYON'S COMPLIMENTS

United States Judge William S. Kenyon, former United States senator from Iowa, addressed a meeting of farmers in Mason City. He said that he was glad that he was out of politics. Information had come to him, he added, that, at caucuses held in Cleveland, opposition was stated to his nomination to the vice presidency for the reason that he had denounced the purchase of seats in the United States senate.

"For this I am truly thankful," he said, "but I hope that the time has not come when denunciation of buying of seats in the senate will keep any one from being elected to office."

Judge Kenyon is to be congratulated for the enemies he has made by condemning the spoils system in senatorial elections. The vice-presidency, great as the office is, would not be worth having if a man had to trade away his right to free opinion and free speech to obtain it, to say nothing of his moral integrity.

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

ON THE BEACH

WHAT do I care what the wild waves are saying, while joyfully washing the beach. I'm just a wave of humanity, playing and looking at things out of reach.

Lolling in sand, I'm away from the throng and I'm resting my weary old frame. Suddenly nature comes skipping along and I willingly join in the game.

Soft, cooling breezes are patting my face and the sun fights them off, shining down. Elements battle for rule of the place, as a cloud shades old Sol with a frown.

Gladly I watch, as the world goes along, all the wonderful things I can see. The wonders of life I can eye for a song, but the world isn't looking at me.

Just who I am makes no difference, 'twould seem, but through longing I'm forcefully taught that all of my likeness is only a dream, and I'm not half as big as I thought.

CANDY FOR ENDURANCE

One of the many war-time myths which had wide circulation in this country was one to the effect that the Germans had discovered some chemical substance or food which had remarkable power to banish fatigue and enable the soldier to show phenomenal endurance. The truth is that the Germans had nothing of the kind, at least nothing which the other armies did not have. The myth which might have been founded upon the extraordinary value of candy for that very purpose. If there is any chemical substance or food which deserves special consideration as an endurance food, it is candy.

Drs. Samuel A. Levine, Burgess Gordon and Clifford L. Derick, of Boston, had the opportunity to study a group of runners who participated in a marathon race of 25 miles last year and again this year (the race is an annual event in Boston), and they found that the runner who broke the world record, had a normal amount of sugar in his blood at the finish and was in excellent condition, whereas runners who became exhausted and were unable to finish the race were found to have a diminished blood sugar content, one, particularly, who became so severely exhausted that he lost consciousness and was brought in by the police showed very low sugar content. The physicians who made these observations remark that during a prolonged and violent effort like this marathon race the metabolic rate increases to ten times the normal rate and the ordinary sugar reserve of the body is insufficient to meet the demands of the body for energy. The belief that the athlete of severe exhaustion or shock, as seen in some of the marathon runners, may be prevented or at least ameliorated if the athlete will take a larger supply of carbohydrate in the diet the night before or the morning before the race. They advise that the runner take candy during the race, say in the form of lime drops, to replenish the blood sugar reserve which is so heavily drawn on in any severe prolonged muscular effort.

The fame of milk chocolate as an endurance food was fully established by the experience of thousands of soldiers in the Great War. Mountain climbers have added their testimony to the value of sugar, in one form or another, as a sustaining food.

Although I fear I utter a medical heresy, at least from the point of view of the old timers, still I think it is a fact sufficiently supported by modern physiological and dietetic knowledge, that sugar is a good baby food and candy is a thoroughly wholesome, healthful food for live boys and girls—good for the teeth and all.

Maybe you and I consume more carbohydrate than our metabolism has any use for, and of course that is bad for one's health—but we need not fall into the error of assuming that because too much of it finds its way into a reasonable amount of it will not be good for the children. As for the teeth, it is only a little less foolish to imagine candy injures the teeth than it is to imagine candy causes children to have "worms." Some of the old fogies really imagined such things—and though they blushing deny it now, still they feel somehow that the kiddies shouldn't have any; they generally think the kiddies should have plenty of castor oil, however.

One Month to Long Beach

What is your opinion of the baby one month old down to Long Beach for the summer? (D. J. J.)

Answer—All right if the baby will have as good care and careful feeding there as at home.

Upsetting the Neighbors

I am 50 years old and take my dozen rolls daily and stand on my head from one to five minutes at each seance besides walking six miles a day and doing my work as janitor in a mill. I have not missed a meal or a day's work in six years. I have persuaded Mrs. _____ to try the somersaults, if you will be good enough to send her a copy of the "somersaults" in the stamped, addressed envelope enclosed. (S. E. F.)

Answer—All right, but be sure to have the cooperation of the lady's husband if there is such a person in the picture. It is fine to be neighborly and all that, but you know a fellow has got to use some caution about sweeping a lady clear off her feet.

Saturday Sermon

"The Commandment of Love" is the title of the following sermon prepared for the Post-Crescent by Rev. H. A. Bernhardt, pastor of Emanuel Evangelical church.

"This is my commandment that ye love one another, as I have loved you." John 15: 12.

Jesus Christ here gives a commandment of love and in Himself we can find an example of its fulfillment. The Lord never thought of His disciples as isolated persons, but always in relation to other men and women. No man can live by himself and for himself alone. However the Master did not set up certain rules to govern them, but specified to them what seems the most fundamental and essential characteristic of discipleship. He puts it in plain terms: "This is my commandment that ye love one another, as I have loved you."

This is not only to be the character of the relationship of disciples but it is also the distinguishing mark of those who truly follow the Lord. "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." The followers of the Christ are to be specialists in love. Of the early Christians it was said that they loved each other without even knowing each other.

LOVE PREDOMINATES

This commandment is not arbitrary. Life consists of love. Any organism in order to live must be brought into an environment to whom it is adapted or adapt itself to its environment. The environment of man is personal. There is God the supreme being and there are his fellow men as fellow-beings. It is any wonder that Jesus commanded us: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, with all thy mind and with thy strength. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." This commandment is therefore not surprising if we but remember that He came that we might have life and have it more abundantly. According to the standard of love some of us are just beginning to live. The stronger our love toward God and our fellow-men, the deeper and wider it becomes, the more truly we live.

Followers of Christ have so many things in common that it ought to be easy for them to follow out the commandment of love. 1. They have a common Friend, Master and Lord. "But he ye not called Rabbi; for one is your Master, even Christ; and ye are all brethren." 2. They have been delivered from a common peril through a common deliverer. "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." "Christ saved each and every one from this common peril. "The wages of sin is death."

Neither is there salvation in any other. 3. As followers of the Christ they have a common supreme task. "Ye are laborers together with God." This kingdom of God is to be established in the hearts of men everywhere. 4. They have a common hope. "Now we are the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that when He shall appear, we shall be like Him; for we shall see Him as He is."

EXPRESSED IN ACTIVITY
This love expresses itself in many ways. Life expresses itself in activity.

Q. Can the wood of the alanthus tree be used in a practical way? N. N.

A. The Forest Products Laboratory says that recent experiments have shown that this wood can be made into a good grade of book paper. The wood gives a high yield of pulp, bleaches easily and can be used for book, lithograph and writing paper. The alanthus, otherwise known as tree of heaven, grows rapidly. In some places it is said to produce 2 tons of wood to the acre every three years.

Q. Why was the Orange Free State so named? L. M.

A. Its proximity to the Orange River accounts for the name. The Orange River was named in 1777 in honor of the House of Orange.

Q. How does the Sahara Desert compare with the United States in size? C. B. H.

A. The Sahara has an area of 3,500,000 square miles, while continental United States has but 3,026,789. With Alaska and our island possessions our territory is slightly larger than the Sahara.

Q. Did General Allenby have water from the Nile piped to Jerusalem? L. E. A.

A. He did not pipe the water of the Nile into Jerusalem. Shortly after the occupation of the city by the British, water was brought to the city from the reservoir originally built nearly 2,000 years ago by Pontus Pilate. This reservoir is known as Birket Arrud and lies a few miles south of Pool of Solomon. The reservoir was repaired and enlarged and now has a capacity of five million gallons.

ON THE SCREEN

A picture of the worst mounted police type is offered Sunday at the New Bijou theatre in "The Recoil," with George Cheseboro in the stellar role.

This type of picture with its red-blooded men and brave women always prove a stirring entertainment. "The Recoil" gives a different twist to this type of picture by opening its early scenes in a college where two brothers are devouring knowledge and both are in love with the same girl. Don, not being over scrupulous, does not hesitate to lie about his brother "Mac" and succeeds in winning the girl.

The treachery of Doucet, the bravery of little Rose, Amy's daughter, her being kidnapped, her escape to warn of her mother's danger, the arrival of Don, to be killed by Doucet, then Mac and the mounted police coming to the rescue work up to one of the most thrilling climaxes ever offered in a picture.

"A SELF-MADE FAILURE" COMING

"A Self-Made Failure," the J. K. McDonald production for First National, which is to be shown next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Elite Theater, has been pronounced by many of the film critics as the best farce comedy of the year. The picture includes every ingredient which has made motion pictures a popular entertainment. The director, William Beaudine, has not missed a chance. Most of the stars in it come from convulsive laughter but some will come from sorrow and deepest tragedy that have been intermixed with a plot that is largely in the nature of a farce.

The success of "A Self-Made Failure" threatens to even surpass McDonald's former successes, "Penrod and Sam" and "Boy of Mine." Ben Alexander, who won fame in both of these McDonalds, will again be seen in McDonald's latest. This time he is the boy companion and tramp of Lloyd Hamilton, one of the best fun makers on the screen today.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

Well, it's all over, old man, Paula has been here and gone. She has come into my house and held her child in her arms while I walked up and down on the other side of the street and cursed myself as I have never cursed in all my life anyone or anything.

One moment I was afraid I would see Paula come out the door walking away with little John, the next moment I almost wished she would, anything so she would get out of my house.

Pretty soon, however she came out and got into her car, with an inscrutable look on her face. I could not tell whether she was going to make trouble or let things lie.

It seemed hours before I could get up courage enough to go into the house, but when I did Leslie met me quite as cordial as ever, telling me Paula had been there and that she would like to have had me come home before she left.

For a moment my knees trembled; then I sat down on a chair and managed to find the voice to ask what Paula said.

"She talked mostly about little Jack," she answered frankly, "and I was glad to be able to let her hold her child in her arms."

"Her child, Leslie?" I was stupid enough to inquire.

"Oh of course, I know we have adopted it, but it is preposterous to try to make me think the child does not belong to Paula Perier."

"She did not say so?" I asked tremblingly.

"Certainly she did not. Women don't do those things."

"I thought they did. I always thought women told more of their affairs than men."

"Certainly they do not. Why yesterday afternoon, Jack, at the matinee Dick Summers told me all about his broken engagement, and if I would have let him he would have told me how much he loved Paula Perier."

"Then he's in love with Paula Perier!"

"Yes, I think he's more in love with her than Sydney Carton."

"Good heavens, Leslie, Sydney Carton was never in love with Paula."

"That's right; keep it up, Jack. You're as loyal to your friend as you ever were."

"You don't seem to dislike him either, Leslie."

"Neither do I dislike Miss Perier, Jack, and although I liked her very much on short acquaintance I tell you honestly I think I like Sydney Carton more. I never could conceive of him having a grand passion for Paula Perier."

"Let's not talk about either of them any more, Leslie. I hope this whole Perier storm is blowing over."

"Was there a storm? I didn't know it." And then, Syd, that blessed woman linked her arm in mine and said:

"Come on, Jack, let's go into the nursery and see our boy."

I felt my eyes grow moist and my conscience kept saying: "You don't deserve it, you don't deserve it."

Goodby, old man, until the next time.

OBSERVE JUBILEE OF OSHKOSH CHURCH

Noted Men Will Take Part in Unique Program Next Sunday

Exactly fifty years ago Wagner's opera house, situated on the corner of Main and Merritt-est, was purchased by the Oshkosh Methodists and was converted into what is now known as the First Methodist church at Oshkosh. The old sanctuary is one of Oshkosh's landmarks.

Next Sunday will mark the last service that will be held in the old edifice. An appropriate program has been arranged to celebrate this fiftieth anniversary of the purchasing of the church and the closing of the building for reconstruction.

Heading the program is Dr. W. E. J. Gratz of Chicago, leader of the Young Peoples movement in the Methodist church. The soloist will be Miss Verna Lean of Milwaukee, one of the soloists in "The Messiah," presented in Appleton at Eastertime. The organist is to be R. W. Hayes, of whom Marcel Duprey, world famous organist of Notre Dame cathedral of Paris, gave highest honorable mention. Dr. Gratz will speak at both morning and evening services.

The Rev. Copeland Smith is at present pastor of the Oshkosh church. One of the recent achievements of the church was the materialization of plans to reconstruct the old edifice along modern lines and to make it a center of community life for the city. An active financial campaign has been carried on.

It is expected that people of surrounding towns will attend this celebration. The ladies of the church are preparing to care for 250 persons at a lunch after the morning service.

KAUKAUNA NEWS

Melvin Trams Telephone 329-J
Kaukauna RepresentativeWON'T SELL DRINKS
IF COUNCIL EXACTS
$50 FEE FOR PERMITCouncil Decides to Draft New Ordinance Fixing "Soft Drink" Licenses

Kaukauna—After much deliberation, the common council decided that it will be necessary to pass a new ordinance to regulate the issuance of "soft drink" permits under the new interpretation of the prohibition laws in Wisconsin and at its meeting in the council rooms Friday evening the council voted to lay the question on the table until an ordinance has been drafted. The document probably will be presented at the regular monthly session next Tuesday. It will be two or three weeks before the ordinance can be put into effect and it is understood that soft drink parlors and confectionary stores where bottled beverages are sold will be permitted to continue under the old license.

All local dealers will be required to pay the same amount for the license from now on as a result of a ruling by the state prohibition office that fruit flavored drinks come under the same class with near beers. Previously there was a discrimination and in Kaukauna a sliding scale of from $5 to $50 was used. It was intimated that the new license fee will be $50. Under the new interpretation all dealers who take out permits will be free to sell near beer and other malt drinks usually sold only in saloons. A number of restaurant owners were questioned relative to the proposed license fee and declared without hesitation they will discontinue the sale of the soft drinks rather than pay the fee.

Members of this council were informed it will be necessary to secure a referendum vote from the city to determine whether the city should bond itself to secure money for the construction of the proposed new bridges. It was thought that all details leading up to preparations for the bond issue had been arranged. In all probability the vote of the city will be secured at the fall primary elections.

Alderman Wiggers moved that all bids on road graders be rejected and that the board of public works be authorized to readvertise for sealed bids for tractor graders with interchangeable rubber and caterpillar wheels and with a scarifier. HAD TO LET
HOUSEWORK GO

So Ill Husband had to do the Work.
Completely Restored to Health
by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

South Bend, Indiana.—"I was all run-down, tired out, and had pains in my back and bearing-down pains. I was so sore I could hardly drag myself around and was not able to do a bit of housework. My husband worked all day in the shop, and then came home and helped me at night. The doctors said I had female weakness, and there was no help but to be operated upon, and of course that would cost us a great deal. My husband heard about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at the drug store and bought me a bottle of it. I had begun to think there was no help for me, but I took three bottles of it and now I feel like myself once more. The price for three bottles wasn't so much as the doctor had charged. I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough."—Mrs. Dora Osborne, 430 Sherman Ave., South Bend, Indiana.

Women troubled with female weakness should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

What Is Buick Going To Do?

Many Rumors Are Afloat Concerning Buick's Next Step in the Automotive World

WHAT is Buick going to do?

This question has been on the lips of everyone for the last few days. Always a subject of speculation among motorists and members of the industry alike, the plans of the Buick Motor Company for its 1925 year have become a topic of conversation everywhere since the rumors have become current that there is to be an announcement of a new model.

At the announcement of the new model, the entire Buick line was redesigned along completely different lines, the public ready to expect something new and startling in the 1925 model.

The introduction of the new model, which has been so long in the making, has been a surprise to everyone.

It is a new model for Buick, a new model that has been characterized by definite advances in better mechanical operation, riding qualities, economy and other features of internal design, as well as in the improvement of the external appearance and appointments.

Meanwhile, the entire Buick organization continues to remain silent. There is, however, a hint in this silence that presages something for the near future.

Having created such a focus of attention to its plans by the announcements of other years and the steps forward that Buick has made with the production of each new model, the public again looks to Buick to provide the season's greatest achievement in the motor.

There is a wide range of opinion as to what the new model will be. Some expect a radical change in the appearance and design of the model. The overwhelming endorsement of the beauty and grace of the present design makes it seem almost certain that Buick will continue the general characteristics of appearance which are so admired.

Of course, it is expected that there will be important refinements and improvements in both the interior and exterior of the new model.

In fact, Buick's policy of building automobiles has been so thorough in every phase that each new contribution to its line has been characterized by definite advances in better mechanical operation, riding qualities, economy and other features of internal design, as well as in the improvement of the external appearance and appointments.

Meanwhile, the entire Buick organization continues to remain silent. There is, however, a hint in this silence that presages something for the near future.

SO BIG By Edna Ferber

Dirk told himself that Paula had known her husband would not be home until ten and had deliberately planned a tete-a-tete meal. He would not, therefore, confess himself a little nettled when Paula said, "I've asked the Emerys in for dinner; and we'll have a game of bridge afterward. Phil Emery, you know, the third. He used to have on his visiting card, like royalty."

The Emerys were drygoods; had been drygoods for sixty years; were accounted Chicago aristocracy; preferred England; rode to hounds in pink coats along Chicago's prim and staid suburban prairies. They had a vast estate on the lake near Stormwood. They arrived a trifle late. Dirk had seen pictures of old Philip Emery ("Philip the First," he thought, with an inward grin) and decided, looking at the rather anaemic third edition, that the stock was running a little thin. Mrs. Emery was blonde, statuesque, and unmagnetic. In contrast Paula seemed to glow like a sapphire jewel. The dinner was delicious but surprisingly simple; little more than Selma would have given him. Dirk thought, had he not been to the farm this weekend. The talk was delectable and rather dull. And this chap had millions. Dirk said to himself, Millions. No scratching in an architect's office for this lad. Mrs. Emery was interested in the correct pronunciation of Chicago street names.

"It's terrible," she said. "I think there ought to be a movement for the proper pronunciation. The people ought to be taught; and the children in the schools. They call Goshio Street 'Gerty'; and pronounce all the 's' in Des Plaines. Even Illinois they call 'Illnoise'." She was very much in earnest. Her breast rose and fell. She ate her salad rapidly. Dirk thought that large blondes oughtn't to get excited. It made their faces red.

At bridge after dinner Philip the Third proved to be sufficiently the son of his father to win from Dirk more money than he could conveniently afford to lose. Though Mrs. Phil had much to do with this, as Dirk's partner, Paula played with Emery, a bold shrew game.

Theodore Storm came in at ten and stood watching them. When the guests had left the three sat before the fire. "Something to drink?" Storm asked Dirk. Dirk refused but Storm mixed a stiff highball for himself, and then another. The whiskey brought no flush to Dirk's pale, white face. He talked almost not at all. Dirk naturally silent was loquacious by comparison. But while there was nothing heavy, unwholesome about Dirk's silence this man's was oppressive, irritating. His large white hands, his great white face gave the effect of bleached bloodless bulk. "I don't see how he stands him," Dirk thought. Husband and wife seemed to be on terms of polite friendliness. Storm excused himself and took himself off with a word about being tired, and seeing them in the morning.

After he had gone: "He likes you," said Paula.

"Important," said Dirk. "If true, 'But it is important. He can help you a lot.'"

"Help me how? I don't want—"

"But I do. I want you to be successful. I want you to be. You can be. You've got it written all over you. In the way you stand, and talk, and don't talk. In the way you look at people. In something in the way you carry yourself. It's what they call force. I suppose. Anyway, you've got it."

"Has your husband got it?"

"Theodore? No. That's—"

"There you are. I've got the force, but he's got the money."

"You can have both." She was leaning forward. Her eyes were bright, enormous. Her hands—those thin dark hot hands—were twisted in her lap. He looked at her quietly. Suddenly there were tears in her eyes.

"Don't look at me that way, Dirk. She huddled back to her chair. Hinky-

She looked a little haggard and older, somehow. "My marriage is a mess, of course. You can see that."

"You knew it would be, didn't you?"

"No. Yes. Oh, I don't know. Anyway, what's the difference, now? I'm not trying to be what they call an influence in your life. I'm just fond of you—you know that—and I want you to be great and successful. It's maternal, I suppose."

"I should think two babies would satisfy that urge."

"Oh, I can't get excited about two pink healthy lumps of babies. I love them and all that, but all they need is to have a bottle stuffed into their mouths at proper intervals and to be bathed, and dressed and aired and slept. It's a mechanical routine and about as exciting as a treadmill. I can't go round being maternal and beating my breast over two nice firm lumps of flesh."

"Just what do you want me to do, Paula?"

She was eager again, vitally concerned in him. "It's all so ridiculous. All these men whose incomes are thirty, forty, sixty—a hundred thousand a year usually haven't any qualities, really, that five-thousand-a-year man hasn't. The doctor who sent Theodore a bill for four thousand dollars when each of my babies was born didn't do a thing that a country doctor with a Ford wouldn't do. But he knew he could get it and he asked it. Somebody has got to get the fifty-thousand-dollar salaries—some advertising man, or bond salesman or—why, look at Phil Emery! He probably couldn't sell a yard of pink ribbon to a school girl if he had to. Look at Theodore! He just sits and blinks and says nothing. But when the time comes he doubles up his fat white fist and mumbles, 'Ten million, or fifteen million,' and that settles it."

Dirk laughed to hide his own little mounting sensation of excitement. "It isn't quite as simple as that, I imagine. There's more to it than meets the eye."

"There isn't! I tell you I know the whole crowd of them. I've been brought up with this moneyed pack all my life, haven't I? Pork packers and wheat grabbers and peddlers of gas and electric light and dry goods. Grandfather's the only one of the crowd that I respect. He has stayed the same. They can't fool him. He knows he just happened to go into wholesale beef and pork when wholesale beef and pork was a new game in Chicago. Now look at him."

"Still, you will admit there's something in knowing when," he argued. Paula stood up. "If you don't know, I'll tell you. Now is when. I've got Grandfather and Dad and Theodore to work with. You can go on being an architect if you want to. It's a fine enough profession. But unless you're a genius where'll it get you? Go in with them, and Dirk, in five years—"

"What? They were both standing, facing each other, she tense, eager; he relaxed but stimulated."

"Try it and see what will you? Will you, Dirk?"

"I don't know, Paula. I should say my mother wouldn't think much of it."

"What does she know? Oh, I don't mean that she isn't a fine, wonderful person. She is. I love her. But success! She thinks success is another acre of asparagus or cabbage; or a new stove in the kitchen now that they've brought gas out as far as High Prairie."

He had a feeling that she pressed him; that her hot eager hands held him though they stood apart and eyed each other almost hostilely.

APPLETON LOCKS HORNS WITH GREEN BAY SUNDAY

Papermakers Will Try To Stop Slugging Bay Men On Home Diamond

Five of the Braby Men Are Hitting Over .300 Mark, While the Team Leads the League in Batting Averages.

The Papermakers will have to put on their batting togs tomorrow when they meet the heavy hitting Braby men of Green Bay at Brandt park. The Green Bay players are no slouches at fielding, but when it comes to winning the club they top all other teams in the league.

It is said that every man on the team is a better hitting pitcher than Bob Steel, himself. Braby the first baseman manager of the Bay men is leading the circuit for individual batting honors and old Chief Williams and Doc Delmore are not very far behind. At least five of the outfit are batting well over the .300 mark. Even Salzki, the Milwaukee recruit, has done well for the three games he has played.

To stop this aggregation of swat-smiths, Appleton's lanky heaver for the Appleton nine, will have to use pretty nearly everything he has. And whatever he does to puzzle the invading batters Sunday, Bob Steel of the Bay City men will try to do his part to stop any onslaught on the part of the Papermakers.

It is expected that a large crowd of both Appleton and Green Bay fans will be out at the game to witness the tussle. Unsettled weather on part home days has frightened a number of the sport enthusiasts away. Twice it has rained on Sunday forenoons, and each time the sun dried up things sufficiently to allow the teams to play.

An interesting schedule is arranged for the State league Sunday. While Green Bay and Appleton do their stuff here, the Sheboygan team will take on the Indians at Oshkosh and the Rushmen will entertain the Fond du Lac outfit in Menasha. Menasha and Sheboygan are putting up a fight for the lead in the league, and both Oshkosh and Fond du Lac are struggling hard to climb up a notch or two higher. Kaukauna will be idle over Sunday.

EARLY BIRDS

There are a lot of fishermen that think the only time the big boys are hitting plugs, spinners and what not are in the wee sma' hours of the morning and some of the dyed in the wool bait tossers swear that this is the only time to fish.

We all admit that morning fishing is pleasant when Old Sol is just crawling out of his blankets and getting ready for a heated argument with mother earth, but occasionally the old boy fails to show up and the day remains cloudy and yet warm enough to make fishing a pleasure.

Morning fishing is perfectly satisfactory to those that like to do it, but there are times during the day that will produce just as good results. Many of the forward lookers prefer to take a chance after a nice warm breakfast of bacon and the fare that usually accompanies a camping outfit before "digging out"—as they call it.

Now take an old timer who has been up against this morning stuff day after day for weeks at a time, the fellow who has doped it all out prefers to postpone his tossing until after breakfast, which gives him something to start out on and makes his trip more of a pleasure than a compulsory one.

Take, for instance, the afternoon, just about the time Old Sol is beginning to hide his brow behind the western territory of the unknown. That

COMBINED LOCKS LOSE TO COLORED PLAYERS, 9 TO 1

Illinois Giants' Timely Hitting and Home Boys' Errors Bring About Defeat

Ragged fielding was responsible for the loss of the game by the Combined Locks team to the Illinois Giants at Combined Locks Friday afternoon. The fracas was witnessed by the biggest crowd of the season, as every one who was not rooting for the home team had come out of curiosity to see the colored boys play. The score was 9 to 1.

Outside of a number of costly errors on the part of both the infield and outfield, the Combined Locks team put up a pretty good scrap. The fielding of Chief Smith in left field was really brilliant. He also brought in the lone run for the Industrials, aided by the sacrifice fly of Veratogen. Marty Lamers and Cavel showed themselves pretty handy at the stick, the former garnering two hits off the blackbirds, the latter getting three.

There were no long hits pitched by either side. Lefty Smith pitched a good game, considering the strength of the colored ball players. The Giants took 11 hits to the Combined Locks 8.

Batteries for Friday's game were Lefty Smith and Cavel for the Combined Locks team, and B. Smith and Rauch for the Illinois Giants. Today the Giants play at Stevens Point and the Combined Locks team play the McMillens at Oshkosh.

POLICE IN LOS ANGELES MUST LEARN HOW TO RUN

Los Angeles—The police here are being put through a course in physical culture by Capt. Walter Yant, former physical director of the Ninety-first division at Camp Lewis.

Explaining the need for the course, Capt. Yant said: "Very few policemen can run three blocks or even two. Few can go up or down a rope."

"Having big muscles and being able to lift heavy weights are not physical fitness. Some officers don't know how to stand. Many don't know how to breathe."

CHAIRS BEAT STUDENTS IN EXHIBITION GAME

Sheboygan—In an exhibition game here on Thursday the Chairmakers of the Wisconsin State league defeated the Indianapolis Normal college team by a score of 7 to 0. Gottsacker pitched nice ball for the Chairs, striking out thirteen men and allowing but six scattered hits. Wangemann starred at bat, with three hits out of four times at bat.

Toledo—Joe Burke, Detroit was knocked out by Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight champion in the first round of their scheduled 12 round bout.

Is the time that this old timer likes to scamper for a boat and begin his tossing. You will usually find him the most successful of the gang at camp, because he usually sticks around until after dark when the old codger oldsters are snooping around the shore for a stray frog or some dainty morsel that might stray away from home ties.

with Dave Smith's ball club. In the olden days, Steel hurled for the Pittsburgh Pirates while Stack toed the mound for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The fans at Nee-Menasha will get their first peek at the Fond du Lac nine as Faris & Co. make their maiden appearance of the season in the Wooden-ware village. This should be quite a slugging contest as both Rush and Jones are capable of hurling a banner brand of deceptive benders.

It takes more than a bad leg to keep Bill Durham out of the line up. The Oshkosh manager is still unfit for duty in the outfield but in the games against the Madison Blues he donned the mask and caught a bang up game behind the bat. Way back when the "Bull" used to be a classy catcher.

Bergerino is getting away pretty good with Appleton. The Milwaukee veteran is getting his wallop every now and then besides playing a sparkling game in the field. Bergy never knows when he is beat on the ball field and his fighting qualities keep the other players on their toes.

Pocan's hurling arm is rounding in to form nicely with the advent of warm weather. The Kaukauna slasher hasn't the easiest job in the world, winning games with the team behind him Pocan didn't look any too good against the Paleis but the week before in the Appleton game, he was there every way.

Two old rivals in the big show, Bob Steel and Eddie Stack, will lock horns in a pitching duel at Appleton on Sunday when Green Bay has it out

Youngest Crack Shot

St. Thomas, Ont.—Alice Howell, 13, year-old girl who broke 13 targets out of 20 at the grand international trap shoot here this month, is the youngest girl ever entered in an organized shoot. She showed up well against more experienced shooters. Her father is an expert marksman.

APPLETON GOLFERS WILL TAKE PART IN INTERSTATE TILT

Kenneth Dickinson and Jack Stevens to Represent Riverview Club at Menominee

Kenneth Dickinson and John Stevens, Jr., of the Riverview Country club of Appleton, will represent Appleton at the interstate matches of teams from the Northeastern Wisconsin Golf association and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan Golf association, which will be played on the course of the Riverside Country club at Menominee, Mich. W. C. Jackson also may go to the interstate match.

The matches Monday will be interesting because of the fact that both associations have won twice. Monday's results will decide the winning of the interstate cup. Dickinson is present Northeastern Wisconsin golf champion and holds an enviable record in championship contests in Wisconsin.

The Riverside club at Menominee has been completely remodeled and there has been considerable work on the course so that everything is in readiness for one of the most severe tests in golf of this part of the country.

Among the prominent golfers who will compete are Gus Kent and Stuart Knillan of Sheboygan, W. R. Kerwin, Dr. M. C. McMillan and A. C. Wittberg of Green Bay, M. A. Carroll and W. J. MacNichol of Oshkosh.

"Having big muscles and being able to lift heavy weights are not physical fitness. Some officers don't know how to stand. Many don't know how to breathe."

Big Ten Colleges Lose Three Star Athletes

Kipke of Michigan, Martineau of Minnesota and Workman of Ohio State Made Brilliant Records in Sports.

Three of the greatest athletes the Western Conference has produced in years have bid adieu to active collegiate competition. They are Harry Kipke of Michigan, Earl Martineau, Minnesota, and Hoge Workman, Ohio State.

Kipke, Martineau and Workman, for the past three years, have been names to conjure with. Each has been a star of the highest order. All have hung up brilliant records for their respective universities.

Two of them, Kipke and Martineau, are All-America football men, while Workman, like the other pair, has won All-Western and All-Conference honors.

Kipke has been a twinkle in three sports—football, baseball and basketball. He earned nine letters, more than any Michigan athlete has earned in the last 20 years. On the gridiron, diamond and court, the Wolverine was the outstanding star on Maize and Blue machines.

Martineau, during his three years of varsity competition at Minnesota, was the Gophers' ace in football. A flashy, speedy back, Earl's gallop through opposing teams were the big noise in the Northern's offensive. Martineau made Camp's first All-America eleven last fall. At Minnesota, he is ranked with such stars as "Indian" Rogers, Johnny McGovern and so on.

Workman for the three seasons was practically the Ohio State football team. Fast foot, quick thinker, brainy, and a clever dodger in an open field, Workman's ability to lug the leather for appreciable advances formed the piece de resistance in the Buckeye's efforts to score points.

Workman was handicapped by playing on a mediocre aggregation. Had Workman been on a team like Michigan or Illinois last season, he would have gained a great deal more prominence than he did.

Workman is also a first-class basketball player. As pitcher for the Cojumbus institution he turned in many notable victories.

WITCOMBE STILL LEADS IN BRITISH TOURNEY

Hoylake, England—With half the third round of the British open golf championship completed, E. R. Witcombe, remained in the lead. Witcombe scored a 77 Friday morning giving him a 54 hole total of 224 and keeping him three strokes ahead of Mac Donald Smith, American professional. Smith was tied with George Duncan and Frank Ball at 227.

Cleveland—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute bantamweight, won a newspaper decision over Al Ziemer, Cleveland in ten rounds.

U. S. GOLFER WINS BRITISH TOURNEY

By Associated Press

Hoylake, England—Walter Hagen, star American professional, won the British open golf championship here Friday.

Hagen captured the title with a single stroke with an aggregation of 301 for the 72 holes of medal play against 302 made by E. R. Whitcombe, the British professional performer.

GIRL HAS MONOPOLY ON OHIO STATE GOLF TITLE

Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, O., has just won the Ohio State golf championship for the third successive time. It may be the last time she will play in the event. She so completely dominates the field that her entry robs the tournament of interest.

WASHINGTON, first in war, first in peace, and first in the American League. For a few days anyway.

Mr. O'Goofy was terribly shocked to hear that Helen Willis lost two matches in England. "Why, I imagined she was too young to smoke," he commented.

The experts predict America will regain the javelin championship this summer, but fortunately the experts are seldom right.

St. Louis fans are heartless. They do not even include a corkscrew when they throw bottles at umpires.

Carpenter has branched out as a radio speaker but in the ring he still telegraphs his punches.

What good does it do to make both ends meet? The contortionist can and theatregoers won't even try for his act.

President Coolidge confines his exercises to work with the dumbbells. Both in the gym and in Congress, one may safely presume.

Johnny Kilbane is now a boxing instructor in Cleveland. Mr. Kilbane will be remembered as the author of the game's first rightknee up percut.

The instructions most of the instructed delegates carried to New York were lead with the right and follow with the left.

Connie Mack insists his Athletics are still in the race. Will the gentleman kindly specify what race?

There are only two golf courses in Berlin. Apparently the Germans still adhere to the old-fashioned method of conducting business affairs in office.

Cleveland—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute bantamweight, won a newspaper decision over Al Ziemer, Cleveland in ten rounds.

Yankees, Fighting Mad, Whip Boston Sox And Climb To Third Place

Huggins' Crew Finally Ends Losing Streak—Detroit Keeps Going by Tripping Indians.

Pent up Yankee wrath, roused to the breaking point by six straight defeats, vented itself on the Red Sox and today the New Yorkers again occupy third place, from which they were recently ousted by the Bostonians. The worlds champion's come back was registered in a double victory over Fohls men by the scores of 12-7 and 10-5. A grand total of 23 hits, supplemented by six Boston errors, enabled the humiliated Huggins to start a drive back toward the top of the American league.

Chicago and Cleveland also changed positions, the White Sox beating St. Louis while the Indians bowed to Detroit. The Windy City crew now is tied with the Browns for fifth place and Speakers tribe trails both by eight points.

The Sox owe their upward climb as much to the ineffectiveness of Sister's twirlers as to their own offensive power, scoring four runs on four hits, three passes, a sacrifice, an error, two stolen bases and a wild pitch. The final count was 9-3.

Whitehill had a slight edge on Shaute in a battle of moundsmen and Detroit chalked up a 1 to 0 victory over Cleveland.

The Washington-Philadelphia clash was prevented by rain. Pittsburgh continued its spurt toward the head of the National league procession at the expense of the Cubs with a 9 to 0 triumph. Cincinnati kept the Smoky City aggregation within hailing distance by taking two from the Cardinals, 5-3 and 5-2.

It is predicted that the impending bout between Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, will draw close to $500,000. This would break all gate records for fighters other than heavyweights.

MENASHA SWAMPED
Wausau—The local Lumberjacks pounded three Menasha pitchers for 13 hits Thursday, winning 13 to 4. Cremin allowed the losers only seven hits.

WAS GRACEFUL LOSER
Helen Willis was at least a graceful loser. The American tennis champion lost her first two matches in England but had no alibi to offer. "I was just outplayed," she said—and meant it.

HAGEN AGAIN WINS BRITISH GOLF TITLE

By Associated Press
Hoylake England—The never failing smile on the cheery face of Walter Hagen, was expanded into a broad grin Saturday. For the second time in three years the dapper American born professional is the open champion of Great Britain, having demonstrated with driver, brassie, masher and putter his superiority over the best golfers produced in England and Scotland—horse of the game.

He finished with a difficult down hill putt just one stroke in front of E. R. Whitcombe, the young British professional. Had the putt stayed out a playoff at 26 holes would have been necessitated Saturday. The scores of the leaders were: Hagen 301, Whitcombe 302; Mac Donald Smith and Frank Ball 304; J. H. Taylor, 307; George Duncan 309; Jim Barnes 309; Gil Nichols 310. Gene Sarazen was among the high scorers with 223.
